

Description

One of the Dragon's Blood sedums, Sedum spurium 'Fuldaglut' is a tough, hardy, red-leaved spurium. Like all our spuriums, 'Fuldaglut' has exceptional drought tolerance, hardiness in heat and cold, dense foliage, and reliable flowers, that attract butterflies, bees, and other pollinators. It has a nice low habit, bright, light pink flowers in mid to late summer, with dark red rosettes in winter. Leaves turn greener in summer but retain their dark red color around the edges. Foliage may take on pink tones in the fall. This plant will tolerate some shade, although flowering and leaf color may be affected. The stunning red foliage makes for a great color contrast when mixed with other plants.
